

Stalls available at the CERES 2012 Autumn Harvest Festival

Celebrating and giving thanks to the good earth, our farmers and the cycle of the seasons

The next annual Autumn Harvest Festival will take place on Saturday 31 March 2012 at CERES Community Environment Park. Across our ten acre site there will be a range of activities and events that celebrate our community, our environment and our sustainable food systems.

CERES will also host a Harvest Festival Market, proving local people and businesses with an affordable, ethical and friendly way of promoting their produce and products within the village atmosphere of CERES.

Would you like to take part?

We are looking for stall holders who are:

- Businesses who support or work within sustainable food systems in Australia
- Groups or businesses who work more broadly within the values of community, environment and sustainability
- Local artisans who produce handmade goods
- Second-hand sellers
- Other not-for-profit community organisations.

**We ask that fresh fruit and vegetables are not sold on individual stalls and are instead sold through our existing organic market and Meet-the-Farmer circle. If you are interested in taking part in the Meet-the-Farmer circle, please contact Market Manager Kate Anderson on 9389 0123 or market@ceres.org.au.*

Benefits

A stall at the CERES 2012 Autumn Harvest Festival provides an excellent opportunity to reach the CERES community. We're anticipating our biggest turn-out ever this year, with the whole site being used for this event. We will be promoting and advertising the festival in the media, online and directly to CERES members and supporters. The entire CERES site will be open to the public with free entry and some of the features of the day we will be promoting include:

- Free live music
- Multicultural food stalls and tastings
- Large farmers' market and meet-the-farmer events
- Green technology demonstrations
- Artists market
- Free talks and demonstrations on food production and cooking, preserving, plant propagation and a range of other environmental topics.
- Kids' activities
- Harvest banquet with special guest Matthew Evans, the host of Gourmet Farmer on SBS.

Application and payment details

In an effort to make this opportunity accessible for small producers and community groups, our stall fees are $88 for CERES members and $110 for non members.

Each stall size is approximately 2.5m x 2.5m. If you require more space, you may purchase up to four stall spaces. Stall spaces will be allocated, grouped together and placed in an appropriate area after Friday 17th February.

We need you to first apply for a stall, which will require you sending us information online about what you have in mind. Once approved we'll send you a link to pay for your stall online. Full payment is then required in order to secure your space. The deadline for stall payment is Friday 17 February, after which time spaces on the site will be allocated and stallholders will be notified of the exact location of their stall.

Limited spaces are available so we encourage you to apply early as allocation will operate on a 'first come first served' basis.
